Lessons from the life of Abraham

Everyone of us has a flaw. The challenge with theoretical study is that it does not always present an account. His life incarnates the truth; brings out the challenges, joys, struggles and paints him as authentic and transparent. That's how the bible portrays real life, real people, real experience in a real world.

- There are some things about Abraham's life that stands out as the best we can learn from.

Heights represent his successes.

- His blemishes and pitfalls weaknesses*

- Retreated when he was afraid (Gen 12:10).
- He repeated the same failure as before with Abimelek (Gen 20).
- Listened to the wrong counsel when he was inpatient (Gen 16).
- Let's look at our lives when we run or compromise.
- How many times have we listened to counsels because it will solve a problem quickly could? There is nothing wrong with taking counsel from those we trust. God's counsel is always right and reliable. Never take counsel that contradicts the truth of the word of God.
- We must learn that if a previous decision was wrong and of no effect it's not likely to have changed.

- Follow wherever God leads, so long as it's God.
- Whatever God promises, believe. Things get worse when we trust our own judgement.
- Whenever God tests, trust. God may be testing you right now.
- However God blesses, share. Guard against greed and seek ways to release God's blessings.
