FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

The immeasurably more God

Text: Ephesians 3:14-21

One of the things that separates human beings from animals is the ability to think things through. Animals act on instincts, but God has given us a sound creative mind (Gen 11:6-7). We can see that in the products of many engineering feats and innovative inventions. However, as much as we have the freedom to think, our sub-conscious mind often puts a limitation on some of our wild thoughts.

Christians are different and unique. Because we serve a powerful almighty God who have no limitations, we are privileged because God has unlimited resources (Eph 3:16) and can do infinitely more than we can ever imagine (Eph 3:20).

Why is God able to do immeasurably more?

For answer, we can look at two of God's attributes. The bible tells us God is sovereign, which means he has the authority to govern himself or have supreme power of authority. Every country in the world will say they're sovereign and shun countr(ies) interfering in their affairs. However, countries are only as sovereign as their military power and Russia's annexation of Crimea in 2014 is a case in point. In most cases, we're not in control at all, and the pandemic has probably illustrated that too.

The almighty God is the only one with supreme power over all things. Without limitations, he can do as he chooses (Eph 1:11b; Col 1:16-17; 1 Chron 29:11-12). God is also omnipotent which means he's all-capable. His power is unlimited over all things at all times (Dan 4:34-35; Isa 14:27). If God raises a hand, opens or shuts a door, no one can stop him. We must be reassured that we have a very big God.

What do all these mean?

The first thing is that we're privilege. We should be encouraged to know we've got a father who's King of kings and Lord of lords, even during these challenging periods. There's no situation he cannot change, nothing he cannot turn around. Also, there's nothing we cannot petition God for. Even if we've been praying for something for a long time, we persist still, believing he has unlimited power to do what we ask. God can go beyond our prayer, but we must be prayerful.

We don't have any power of our own, but we're strengthened by the knowledge that God loves us. For example, Jabez is the least in his family and born in sorrow, but he was uplifted when he prayed to God (1 Chron 4:9-1). God is working in us and want to use us (Phil 2:12-13). With that knowledge, we must let our hearts be full of joy and work willingly for him because although God can accomplish his plans without us, he chooses us (Col 3:23-24). It's a privilege to serve God and he will reward us as we do.

Bottom line:

Let's meditate on the texts in Isaiah 40:28-31.
