Portraits of Jesus: The light of the world

Text: John 1:1; 3-7; 9-18 (NLT)

We have books in the bible like Genesis with verses that are quoted over and over again. But the dramatic first chapter in John is one of the most gripping books of the bible. Reading the today texts, cast your mind to Matthew 6:23, where the scripture talks about a great blinding darkness even when there's light in the body. It was symbolic that the one thing that guided the three wise men was a star.

John said in the beginning the Word already existed. The Word was with God, and the Word was God. We can ponder on this verse with many questions. But an overriding one may be: When does life really begin?

The scripture said the word was God, yet he already existed. David believed God knew him from the womb (Psalm 139:6; 12-16). In Isaiah 45:1, God said sent a message to Cyrus and described him as "his anointed ... whose right hand" he's "held" (NKJV). That may imply that Cyrus has always existed too.

In John 1:5, the scripture talked about "the light that shines in the darkness, and the darkness did not comprehend it". This tells us that at the point of entry into the world and creation, God's light touches us. We carry that light and become a reflection of the light. But we lost this light. It became distorted and dim (Matt 4:16).

Then Jesus came into the world. He's the great light that now infill us when we receive the gospel. As we receive the gospel, the light of God begins to purify us. The more of his light in us, the more we reflect to others (Luke 11:33-36; 2 Cor 4:1-4). And the scripture tells us that God is able to complete his work in us (Phil 1:6).

Note that people who don't know Christ still carry his light and that's why we see some people who may be depraved and yet they sometimes reflect his light.

Bottom line:

Pray that the light of God will dispel the darkness around you so that you can reflect that light to others around you.
