FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

Portraits of Jesus: The quest for signs

Text: Luke 2:8-20

A messianic text said people in darkness have seen a great light (Isa 9:1-7). Giving our lives to Christ is an introduction to the one we've been celebrating in Christmases past. It is when we see this great light.

The first Noel Christmas carol was taken from our text today. Nothing else was said again about those shepherds who witnessed Jesus' birth, but there was no doubt they had an astonishing experience, more than we could ever experience in our lives.

An angel, lights shining around them and they've probably never been so scared, until the angel calmed and gave them the good news. We may not know what they did afterwards, but for the rest of their lives, it is unlikely they would ever forget or question what they've witnessed: the amazing event of the birth of the Messiah.

The request for evidence

Christmas was instituted as an event to glorify God and celebrate what his coming into the world represented. But subsequently, the request for evidence have been persistent. For example, satan said to Jesus: "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down from here" (Luke 4:9) and the Pharisees would always ask him for a sign (Mark 8:11-13; Luke 23:8; John 2:18).

If it was about signs, how could Judas have betrayed him? He saw all his miracles up close and yet, he handed him over to his enemies? I think we seek signs because our lives are ruled by evidence of what we see and feel. However, the first criteria for coming to God is to believe he is, without proof or evidence (Heb 11:6).

It is the wonderful thing about Christ and faith in Christ. We celebrate today because we believe that he is and over time, we see a reward for our belief. Even when some preachers manufacture evidence, it never works because it is in our experience of him that we can see the signs and evidence we seek.

Jesus said we know how to read the signs of the times (Luke 12:56). Today's sign is that the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, even when we don't see him, is certain. So don't ask for evidence or proof. Trust that he would show himself strong on your behalf.

Bottom line:

Job faced adversities and had every reason to deny God. And yet, he still had faith (Job 19:23-27). Like Job, we can have every confidence that even when we've long died, one day we'll be resurrected and the evidence we seek will stand before us.

We should not look back unless it is to derive useful lessons from past errors, and for the purpose of profiting by dearly bought experience.
