FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

God has equipped us for his work

Text: Philippians 3:4-11

In Philippians 3:1-3, we're counselled not to have confidence in human effort, but God's. Our text today takes that further, telling us not to have confidence in our own effort or achievement(s). Paul said everything he'd thought valuable, even though he had a lot he could boast about, has been discarded so he could gain Christ.

School reunions are often testing for those who haven't achieved enough by their own estimation. Many never attend them because they're afraid their life's work haven't measured up, when weighted against others. We've said results can only come from God, even while we need effort and should be hardworking whenever possible (Deut 8:12-18). Also, the truth is our opinions or perception about our achievements can sometimes be distorted, and either magnified or lessened as desired.

In Daniel 4:28-30, Nebuchadnezzar's perception about his achievement was clear. He thought he built everything he could see before him. In contrast, David ascribed every victory he had to God (Psa 18:28-69; see also 2 Sam 22:1-51). David wasn't the creator of all or the hero. Paul's attitude's the same, making it clear knowing Christ is the only thing that's important to him (Phil 3:8-11).

Paul went on to say his main focus now is to continue working towards reaching the goal of living diligently for God (Phil 3:12-14). Jesus said a faithful servant must be trusted by his master and be prepared at any time for an account to be required of his master's investment (Lk 12:42-48). This parable illustrated that God has invested in each and every one of us and he is expecting a return.

Whatever we do therefore, we must do it onto God as diligently as we can. We must also know he has equipped us with everything we need to do the work he's called us to do, and recognise the gifts he's given us (Matt 25:14-15).

Just like a blind man whose life was changed by Jesus once, we all have testimonies we can narrate and tell the world, if we're paying attention to them (John 9:1-27). God's light is shining within us (John 1:1-9). We need to share it with the world and let it be seen (Matt 5:14-15; Rom 12:1; 6-8; 11).

Samuel's mother gave him to the Lord (1 Sam 1:26-28). When Samuel grew up, he didn't deviate from that path, continuing to give himself in service to Israel and the people of God. We've all been given gifts to edify the body of Christ and help each other. Let's use them to the glory of God. That's why Paul asks us to take care how we build on the foundation Christ laid for us (1 Cor 3:10-15).

Bottom line:

We make the effort, and God can inspire it in us, but God is the enabler and the achiever within us. He can call us to excellence, to maximise our talent and efforts, but he's the one that assures the result, if and when we're willing. Let's be a blessing, or even more, to God and others, like Dorcas was (Acts 9:36-42).
