FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

How to love all the saints

Text: Colossians 4:1

In Catholic practice, saints are a special class of believers who have been canonised. This is the process by which the Catholic Church confers sainthood upon a person based on that person's special or miraculous deeds, usually after they're dead. In the bible, the saints is a term commonly used by the Apostles and it originates from the Greek word hagios, which means "holy" or "set apart."

It is reportedly used 60 or more times in certain versions, referring to the believers every time. Therefore, in contrast to the Catholic practice, several verses in the Bible support that view that every Christian are saints, set apart for God's work (Eph 4:11-16; Acts 9:13; 26:10; Rom 1:7; 1 Cor 1:2). There's also no doubt that God expects us to work together as a body, in the "fullness of Christ."

Jesus stresses at least two reasons why unity is important among Christians or followers of Christ. One is for pragmatic reasons, because if we're divided or working against one another, we cannot stand (Matt 12:25-26). The other is to achieve the purpose of our calling into the Kingdom of God, that we may be one in God and the world may believe we were sent by God to bring Good News to the world (Jn 17:20-23).

In other to succeed, we need the help and leading of the Holy Spirit (Lk 24:49; Acts 1:4) and last but not the least, we need to love one another (Col 3:14-16). The Apostles continued the emphasis on unity and working together in their ministries, using several descriptive phrases. For example, Paul talked about one body with many parts (1 Cor 12:12-27; Rom 12:3-5; Eph 4:1-7; 16) and said we are the body of Christ (1 Cor 12:27; Eph 4:12).

We're members of the same body, working together as a whole, with Christ as the head (Eph 3:6; 4:16; 5:23; Col 1:18; 2:18-19), the first born (Col 1:15) and the salvation of every Christian (Eph 4:15-16).

As far as how we may practice our love for the saints goes, Paul charged us in Hebrews 13:3 for example to remember Christian prisoners as if chained with them. We share a common bond which should transcend all things, including language, background, race or even religious differences (1 Cor 12:25). That includes supporting and admonishing one another in love (Col 3:16).

Bottom line:

It is expected that all followers of God work together in unity to achieve the purpose of God. That requires that we love one another, just as Christ loved us.
