FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

Living free of condemnation?

Text: Colossians 2:16-23

We've learnt by now that it is not by our power or strength and because of that, there's nothing we could've done to earn our salvation, without Jesus. We will be building on that today using our text. One of the burdens we all carry is self-condemnation. Sometimes also, others judge us wanting and there's no way it doesn't affects us.

For example, when we check ourselves in the mirror, it is not because we forget what we look like. It is because we want to be at our best and prevent condemnation or ridicule when we're not. This text tells us not to let anyone condemn us for disobeying worldly rules because we're not bound by the laws of sin and death.

The bible tells us to do whatever we do as unto God and not man (Col 3:23-24) and assures us that God will make even our enemies our friend, when our ways pleases God (Pro 16:7). When someone judges you, it is because you've submitted yourself to their judgement. In other words, the problem is more about what we believe than what anyone thinks about us.

Jesus illustrated this when a woman was brought to him. By worldly rules, the woman had no defence, but there was also no one without sin to sit in judgement over her (Jn 8:3-11). We're often dissatisfied with something in the way we look, but if we truly believe we're made in the image of God, how can we believe we lack perfection in any way?

Like the woman accused of adultery, we're standing before the judgement throne of God and all he sees in us is Jesus, justifying us before him. When God is not condemning us, who dares do that (Isa 54:17)? We must stop given mortal men power over us, to destroy our peace in God, freely offered. Instead of judgement, we've received grace from God.

Bottom line:

Be careful how you think (Pro 4:23). If you keep hearing and believing voices condemning you, they will be limiting and you will be unable to fulfil God's purpose in your life. Don't condemn yourself when God hasn't condemned you or decide you deserve the worst punishment (Jn 8:11).
