Life drivers

Text: Colossians 3:1-4

We'll focus on the first part of this text, charging us to set our sights on "the realities of heaven". Paul also told the Corinthians something similar (2 Cor 4:16-18). Some have contended that being a businessman is incompatible with being a Christian, especially when some scriptures (e.g. 1 Jn 2:15; 1 Tim 6:6-10; Matt 19:23-24). It is not really that cut and dry.

When Jesus told Nicodemus he must be born again, he was confused and Jesus told him he couldn't understand the things of heaven if he can't believe earthly things (Jn 3:11-13). What are the realities of heaven? The scriptures talk about streets of heaven being paved with gold (Rev 21:21). That's not really what we mean and it's not about wealth or physical things.

It is about a place with a beauty or value that far outweighs what we see on earth. In other words, things that are unseen (2 Cor 4:18), like when Elisha prayed for his servant to see the chariots of fire and horses surrounding them (2 Kn 6:13-17). The book of Hebrews tells us about men of faith and their search for something that is much more than they can see (Heb 11:1-40).

Paul says what we focus on becomes our reality (2 Cor 4:18). Thomas Aquinas also said the three things necessary for the salvation of man is to know what he ought to believe, desire and do. What do we focus on? If there are no limits, what do you want?

Solomon was asked this sort of existential question and had to make a choice. His response impressed God and he was rewarded for that moment (1 Kn 3:3-15). The disciples had to answer the same question too and Peter chose Jesus who he says have the words of eternal life (Jn 6:60-71).

Once we know what we believe and desire, the Psalmist gave us a clue what to do. A life of sacrifice is good (Ps 40:1-7), but the Psalmist's pledge is that he takes joy in doing God's will (Ps 40:8). That's why David wouldn't go against God's anointed just so he could become king (1 Sam 24:6-7). The primary reality of heaven is that the will of God is done (Matt 6:10). Paul learnt this at his conversion and took it to heart (Acts 9:5-6; 22:10). We must do the same.

Bottom line:

What do you focus on? Setting our focus on the realities of heaven means doing God's will in all things (Heb 12:1-2). Heaven on earth is when we allow God's will to prevail.
