VERSE(S) OF THE DAY

And let us consider one another in order to stir up love and good works, not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as is the manner of some, but exhorting one another, and so much the more as you see the Day approaching.

FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

Support systems

Text: Colossians 4:7-18

Many of us will be grateful if there's someone praying hard and earnestly on our behalf. We may also think of Paul as someone with intense focus, a hard man and a lone ranger. He once shook off a thorough beaten. After they left him for dead, he just got up and returned to the same city (Acts 14:19-20). He boasts of being hungry and suffering for Christ (2 Cor 11:16-33).

Paul comes across as strong and confident, but the main reason he's so successful is the support structure around him. He may be single, but he was almost always never alone. In fact, the first thing he does when he gets to a place is to look for local Christians to partner with him, gather them around himself. They soon become his support structure. It may be useful to ask ourselves why we believe what we believe.

The French mathematician and philosopher, René Descartes did and considered why we should believe in God and theorises that if any of us dies, life goes on, but it is necessary to believe in a being without whom no one and nothing else can exist (John 1:1-3). Descartes concluded: "I think, therefore I am." It sounds like he was trying to assure himself that he exists.

Alone, it is hard to get far or resist questioning our own existence. Paul understood the concept that motivated God to create Eve from Adam at the beginning, that it wasn't good for man to be alone (Gen 2:18). We may find on reflection that several supports at various points in our lives may have been instrumental in helping us to succeed. They may even been our saving grace once or twice, when we're weak or in the darkest challenges we face. God's help is invaluable, but the support systems he places around us are crucial to him working effectively in our lives.

One of the devil's key weapon is to make us feel we're all alone and there's no help. Contrast Elijah and Elisha. While Elijah was a loner, Elisha learned to build a support structure around himself (2 Kn 6:1-7). No wonder Elijah thought he was the only prophet left when Ahab and Jezebel was seeking to kill him until God pointed out the error in his thinking (1 Kn 19:10-18).

We must always seek and be sensitive to the people God will bring our way to support and encourage us. They're sources of hope for us and may or may not be Christians. We should never negate their influence or God's ability to use them to improve our lives. In fact, the church is created to be a support system for believers (Heb 10:25). Elisha's life illustrated this and even when it seems he's alone, there was a host of heaven fighting for him (2 Kn 6:15-23).

Paul felt deserted by Demas and others at some point, but there were others like Luke and he instructed Timothy to bring more as well as his books (2 Tim 4:9-18). For Paul, information from those books was part of his support systems and that's true for us too as the bible tells us (Hos 4:6; Isa 5:13; Prov 4:5-9; 2 Cor 2:11; 2 Tim 2:15). However, God was with Paul too and he knew it. He also charged us to remember his chains and not forget his suffering (Col 4:18). We must remember them too and continue to pray for them, even when we're not sure what we can do.

Bottom line:

Some may revel in aloneness or solitude. God didn't create us to be alone. We must seek to add positive influences to our support system and remember those in chains for their belief.
