FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

How should Christians deal with the cost of living crisis?

Text: Acts 11:25-30

Nothing happening to us now, in the past or future is new (Ecc 1:9). It's all happened before and will again. However, it is often difficult to console anyone with such sentiments. For the most part, it is the shock of the sudden changes, along with the media telling us it's like nothing we've ever experienced before. In time, we adjust and find ways to cope.

All through history, there's always been times of abundance and scarcity. We could follow many of the instructions proposed to mitigate the impact. Ultimately, we must understand that God is the only one that can help us and one way to make sure we remain unaffected is to continue to give to God (2 Cor 8:1-3). Let's share what we have with others, freely. Cook extras, donate to charities helping others, open your doors and be hospitable. Let's also confide in someone when struggling.

It doesn't matter how little or big we can do. It only matters that we do something. Let's be our brothers' keepers. (Acts 11:25-30). Those who have should share with those who do not. Sometimes, the tendency in these cases is to hoard, because we're afraid we don't know what may happen in future. Let's remove fear from our hearts as much as possible (Gen 26:1-2). God loves to help us in times of need and hates it when we go searching for help somewhere else (Isa 31:1-2; 15).

This is even more important now because the crisis is global and everywhere. In such circumstances when there's no solace to be had anywhere and that's why removing fear from our hearts and going to God, who's helped us through many difficult times in the past will be even more important (Ex 14:13-14). As a matter of fact, crisis often brings opportunities to advance or search for a non-standard solution and sometimes, they prove profitable for us. Take this as an opportunity to trust God and see if he won't open the windows of heaven for you (Mal 3:10).

Bottom line:

In this crisis period, God is telling you to "just stay calm" (Ex 14:14 – NLT). God is still able to save us from storms, whatever they are (Isa 59:1). Let's believe that and look out for opportunities to reveal the saving grace of God in our lives instead (2 Cor 5:20).
